The Homegirl Monie Bursts Into 2020 With Two New Singles.

The fiery California native returns with confidence and drive.

Los, Angeles, CA | Jan. 24, 2020 - Female rapper, The Homegirl Monie, mixes the future with nostalgia with her hard-hitting music. 2020 will see the first new music since The Calixy, with two singles on the way, and a complete project to follow.

"Drop It" and lead single "Samantha Jones" are The Homegirl Monie's most radio-friendly songs to date, but still feature production that is not bound to one genre. Both songs will arrive before Monie's next project All Work, No Pray, which is expected "by the summer." The Homegirl Monie shares that the upcoming project is "just speaking on how hard work beats waiting with your hand out any day."

A native of Pico Rivera, California, Monie describes herself as "Powerful and Relentless." These qualities are reflected in both her rhythmic flow and sultry vocals. Love for the West Coast often serves as a common thread on The Homegirl Monie's projects, such as 2018's The Calixy.

The Homegirl Monie's drive is fused into her brand, including the way that she wants fans to respond to her music. Monie hopes to inspire fans "watching her chip away at her dreams. My brand is hard work and encouraging women to be independent, assertive, and take ownership over themselves and their endeavors."
